

The January 20, 2017 WATCH coalition meeting was our Annual Volunteer Recognition meeting. Members took time to express what they love about participating in WATCH and what they were proud of helping the coalition accomplish in the past year.

Vianey Reinhardt	Give WATCH website cards as part of Excel Center's discharge process
Michelle Brown	Connected WATCH with Connect for Kids
Jennifer Perez	Collaboration efforts, WATCH speaking at CRCG meeting, networking
Eddie Gracia	UBH remaining active in the coalition
Karly Taylor	Incorporating the art contest into activities at innovations Mesa Springs, with a big display wall of art at the agency
Sadaf Meckfessel	Sending Family Tree clinicians and families to Wellness Workshops
Phyllis Finley	Collaboration with MHMR, and DR Suicide Prevention Coalition
Julie Ballinger	Becoming more involved with WATCH
David Huffman	Sharing information about WATCH with his UNT students and clients
Claudia Nava	Referring families to the WATCH website
Madai Maldonado	Becoming more involved with WATCH
Dina Yousef	Learning about the different resources available to share with clients
Bissy Nitchovska	Sharing information and resources with clients and volunteers
Deisy Ybarra	Becoming more involved with WATCH
Michelle Fox	Serving as a library liaison for the art contest; sending staff and interns to collaborate and offer services with other members
Larry Mankoff	Seeing WATCH grow due to contributions made by all member organizations. Having a role in WATCH from the very beginning. WATCH is now a part of the Denton County community.
Brooke Moore	WATCH is very informative; able to share opportunities and resources with staff and others

Tina Peggs	Becoming more involved with WATCH
Beth Tellez	Assisting with the art contest; daughter participated in her own way
Jeanne Clark	Refer NAMI families to visit WATCH's website
Tricia Atzger-John	Share resources from WATCH with school nurses
Alex Reed	WATCH was the first organization to ask Meadows Mental Health Policy Institute for child related messaging for the Okay to Say campaign
Janice Bigby	Sharing WATCH information with Denton ISD staff and leadership
Tiana Gooden	WATCH's website is available to community members; hosting educational workshops to raise awareness; and WATCH's role with the Okay to Say campaign to reduce stigma of mental health issues
Kamilah Hasan	Enthusiasm of members to participate in WATCH has helped it expand and grow; this has been integral to help WATCH make progress on other objectives
Whitney McGee	Assisting with the art contest; the art contest is truly about the children
Enny Torres-Yanez	Seeing WATCH grow and have a ripple effect in the community